What is Votrient:

Votrient (pazopanib) is a cancer medicine that intrudes with the growth and expands of cancer cells in the body. Votrient is used to treat advanced renal cell carcinoma (kidney cancer).

Renal cell carcinoma (RCC) is a kidney cancer that originates in the lining of the proximal convoluted tubule, a part of the very small tubes in the kidney that transport waste molecules from the blood to the urine.

Votrient is also tried to conduct soft tissue sarcoma (a tumor that can develop in or around muscles, tendons, joints, organs, or blood vessels). Votrient is usually given after other cancer medications have been tried without successful treatment of soft tissue sarcoma.

Side effects of Votrient:

Diarrheal, nausea/vomiting, headache, loss of appetite, weight loss, altered sense of taste, numbness/tingling/redness in hands/feet, or feeling tired/weak may occur. If these effects remain or worsen, talk your doctor or pharmacist promptly.

Temporary hair loss and/or change in hair or skin colour may occur. Normal hair growth should return after treatment has ended.

After using this medication by people may have serious side effects. However, your doctor has advised this drug because he or she has judged that the benefit to you is greater than the risk offside effects. Careful monitoring by your doctor may make less your risk...

Uses of Votrient:

Pazopanib is used to conduct kidney cancer. It is also used to conduct certain other types of cancer (soft tissue sarcoma). Pazopanib belongs to a class of drugs known as tyrosine kinase inhibitors. It works by decreasing the blood supply to the cancer tumor to slow tumour growth.

This medication should get away from children, especially younger than 2 years of age, because of the dangerous risk of serious side effects.
